

LEV TOLSTOYAND THE CONCEPT OF BROTHERHOOD

A Conference on Tolstoy sponsored by the University of Ottawa
 Department of Modern Languages and Literatures
22-24 FEBRUARY 1996

Participants include the following scholars:

Caryl Emerson
 Princeton University
Alexander Fodor
 McGill University
Galina Galagan
 Russian Academy of Sciences
 St-Petersburg
Lidia Gromova-Opul'skaya
 Russian Academy of Sciences Moscow
Richard Gustafson
 Columbia University
Edmund Heier
 University of Waterloo
Gary Jahn
 University of Minnesota
Amy Mandelker
 The City University of New York
Gary Saul Morson
 Northwestern University
Donna Orwin
 University of Toronto
Kathleen Parthe
 University of Rochester (USA)
Munir Sendich
 Michigan State University at East Lansing
Rimvydas Silbajoris
 Ohio State University
Walter Smyrniw
 McMaster University
Chris Turner
 University of British Columbia
Alexander Zweers
 University of Waterloo
Andrew Donskov
 University of Ottawa

The three-day Conference will feature papers dealing with Tolstoy's fiction, drama, theoretical writings, treatises and correspondence, an open forum on 'Tolstoy at the threshold of the 21st century', as well as an evening reception and a banquet. The Proceedings of the Conference will be published in late spring of 1996.

For information about the Conference or for pre-registration forms please write to:
Professor Andrew Donskov, Dept of Modern Languages & Literatures,
University of Ottawa, Ottawa, Canada K1N 6N5.
 Telephone: (613) 562-5800, Ext. 3749 Fax: (613) 562-5138

Organizing Committee:
 Andrew Donskov, John Woodsworth, Arkadi Klioutchanski
 UNIVERSITE D'OTTAWA