

Style Guide and Information for Authors

Editorial Policy: The Tolstoy Studies Journal is a refereed journal and welcomes contributions on any topic relevant to Tolstoy scholarship. In addition to articles, the journal publishes review articles, roundtable discussions, news and events, notices of work in progress, special reports, and book reviews. Book reviews will normally be invited, but unsolicited reviews may be considered. See the inside front cover for addresses for submissions.

Submissions: Two copies of the manuscript should be sent to the Editor. Receipt of manuscripts will be acknowledged, and the author will be informed as soon as possible whether or not the manuscript has been accepted. The usual deadline for submission is June 1. Special issues may have special deadlines which will be announced in advance.

Style: The manuscript should be prepared in accordance with MLA Style, that is, references should be made in the body of the text to works that are listed in a WORKS CITED section at the end of the paper. Footnotes should contain commentary rather than bibliographical material.

Transliteration: Russian and other Slavic languages should be transliterated according to the Library of Congress system of transliteration. Russian surnames which have commonly been transliterated differently in English, e.g., Tolstoy, Tchaikovsky, should be given in their standardized form.

Quotations: Quotations may be given in cyrillic. English translations should also be supplied. Direct quotations longer than four manuscript lines should be set off from the body of the text by indenting five spaces from the left margin and omitting quotation marks.

Computer generated copy: To facilitate type-setting, the journal encourages the submission of computer disks in any format. When submitting the disk, please indicate the type of word-processing program used, the operating system and the title of the file.
